On Tuesday, while adjusting the machinery attached to the circular saw at M. B. Eshleman's mill at Newport, John Alexander had the two middle fingers of his left hand so badly mangled that amputation was necessitated.

Mr. Bierly Mateer of Shiremans town, fell on an ax on Wednesday last and cut the spinal column causing his death in a few moments. The accident was caused by his losing his balance while handling a heavy post.

The barn belonging to John Weaver of Wheatfield twp., which was recently burned, was insured in the Lurgan Company of Franklin county for $400, and the company through their agent, Rev. S. Bigham, have already paid the loss.

A little daughter of Mr. W. T. Walker of Shippensburg, while carrying home a loaf of bread from the baker's wrapped up in a towel, was met by a tramp who deliberately took bread and towel from her and walked away.

Frank Wilson, colored, was hung at Harrisburg on Wednesday. The trap was sprung at 10:30 a.m. The crime for which Wilson suffered occurred on the night of June 16th, 1876, when a ped-dler by the name of John Rudy was murdered. Wilson was afterwards ar-rested in Carlisle and placed in the Dau-blin county isil. phin county jail.

As William Work was driving along about five miles from this place on Sunday last, a white horse came rushing out of the bushes so suddenly as to scare the animal he was driving, causing him to turn around and upset the buggy. The lad was thrown out, but held on to the lines and succeeded in stopping the horse, without getting much hurt himself or any damage done to the vehicle.

On the evening of the 4th inst., Taylor Baltozer took occasion to leave Loysor Baltozer took occasion to leave Loys-ville in a sudden manner. This resolve of Taylor's was caused by John Miller popping at him with a pistol, and John was induced to do this reckless shooting because T. B. had talked slanderously about his (John's) wife. Fortunately no one was hurt, and Loysville people do not seriously mourn over Baltozer's absence.

About the flattest communication we ever read, is one in last weeks' Advocate signed 'Gottleib Schmidt,' purporting to be a reply to Mahonoy's article in The Times on Perry County Crookedness. It is really not worth notice, and for that reason we will decline to insert the communicion we this week received in answer to it. We think "Gottleib Schmidt" altogether too small game for 'Mahonoy to waste his ammunition on.

Jacob Baily, Esq., who recently took Greeley's advice, and left this place, has, we notice, purchased the Globe-Journal at Falls City, Nebraska. Jacob is a pleasant writer and will no doubt make his paper a welcome visitor to his subscribers. We trust his investment will be the means of putting money in his purse.

Arrested.-Emanuel K. Bitting; Isaac Miller; Samuel Albright and John Shaeffer, of Buffalo twp., were brought to this place on Thursday, charged with committing the robbery of Mr. Buck's granary several weeks ago, at which time a large lot of meal was stolen .-Bitting found a friend to go his ball, but the others in default of bail were committed to jail.

Robbed. — On Monday night of last week, the Shoe Shop of Jerry Wilson in Carroll tp., on the Shermansdale road was robbed of his tools, a quantity of leather and a pair of shoes. The thief proved to be a tramp who stopped in the shop the day previous and was allowed the use of the tools to mend his Pursuit was made next morning, and the chap was traced to a bye road on the mountain, leading to Crane's Gap where he was found asleep in the woods. The stolen property was all in his possession. He was taken to Shermansdale, and subsequently committed to jail in this place. He gives the name of Wm. Par-

Attempt at Robbery .- About ten o'clock last Tuesday night Mrs. William Smith was lying down in a back room of her dwelling house on Sixth street, her husband being absent at the time, when a man made his appearance in the room ostensible for the purpose of plundering, thinking that the lady was sleeping, but the mysterious presence of an unknown man before her immediately aroused her and she screamed out "bloody murder," when the intruder fanned the light out with his hat and jumped from the window, neighbors hearing him alight on the porch underneath.-Newport News.

A Costly Run Off .- On Tuesday of last week, while Mr. George Heikes, of Latimore twp., Adams county, left his horses, which were attached to a reaper, stand alone in the field, they took fright and started at a fearful speed around the field. They were finally brought to a standstill, by the reaper catching on the fence whilst they were in the act of leaping over. The reaper was completely demolished. He had only purchased it a few days previous.-Comet.

Cumberland County .- We copy the following from the Cumberland county papers of last week:

Samuel Wert, living near the North Mountain, pulled down an old musket the other day to shoot a hawk which had pounced down on a young turkey. And if he did he suffered severely for not keeping his fire arms in better order. His musket instead of going off and doing duty, exploded, shattering his jaw bone knocking out a number of his teeth, both above and below, besides stunning him severely. stunning him severely.

On Sabbath a week since, Isaac Fry of Frankford township walked to a cherry tree near at hand with several of his children. As one of the girls was standing on a lower limb eating cherries, she was horrified to discover a blacksnake creeping out the limb towards her. As a maiter of course she screened pretty a matter of course she screamed pretty loudly which brought her father who killed it, the snake, in the meantime, having stopped before it reached her.

H. A. Lamb, in Shepherdstown, lost a valuable cow last Saturday, by acci-dent. In running across the pavement the animal slipped, striking her head against a post breaking her neck.

Jas. Gouse, a harvest hand working for Geo. W, Bowman, of Silver Spring twp. fell from the top of a cherry tree on Wednesday last, breaking both bones of his left arm.

One day last week, while Mrs. Susan Thompson, of Shippensburg, was gathering raspberries on Timber Hill, she fell from a fence and broke her arm.

Mr. O. T. Harris, of Carlisle, informs us that while workmen were engaged in digging a cistern on his premises a few days since, they discovered, at a depth of three feet from the surface, a green apple tightly imbedded in the clay, and in a perfect natural state. Singular .-Volunteer.

Mr. Harry Rice has again taken charge of the mail route on the Walnut Bottom road between Carlisle and Shippensburg. Mr. R. is a very obliging gentleman, and his numerous friends in the valley will be pleased to hear of his return.

Juniata County.-We copy the following from the Juniata county papers of last week.

On Thursday, June 21st, Mr. John Kelly, of Black Log, was helping Char-ley Apple to haul bark off the North side of Shade mountain, near Black Log tannery. When they had the load on side of Shade mountain, near Black Log tannery. When they had the load on (two cords) and were about to go down the mountain, having tied the wheels and put on the rough lock, a shower came up and they both went under the wagon. The lightning struck a tree near them, frightening the horses. The horses started to run; Kelly fell under the wheel, and it being locked, pushed him down over the rocks about one hundred yards, smashing and mangling his dred yards, smashing and mangling his body in a shocking manner, leaving his flesh sticking on the rocks. He was carried home, where he died the next day.

One evening last week, an unruly roman under the influence of bug woman under the influence of bug juice, was furnished with a private room in the county jail, where she could sober up at her leisure.

Slanderers and their Gossips — Bloomfield not Sinless.

MR. EDITOR:—It is about time our papers cry out against this thing. The Ancients used to teach 2 maxim of this kind—"Speak no Slauder—no—nor ilsten to it!"—The rule of conduct indicated has gone, with other lost arts, into oblivion. If any doubt this assertion let him take four women, in our town, and two men whom I could name, and listen to their conversation just fourteen minutes, and if he does not know more things that never were true than he did before, then I am a falsefier and a bad reporter of events. I want the four ladies (?) to have their knitting along and the two gentlemen (?) a clay pipe each. The neighbors of this party must (of course) be absent. You must see the expression of each speaker's countenance, as well as the gestures of the hands, to appreciate the subject under discussion.

"There seems to be lust in some no power can

"There seems to be lust in some no power can tame,
To publish some poor neighbor's shame,
On eagle's wings immortal scandais fly,
While virtuous actions are but born to die."

To publish some poor neighbor's shame, On eagle's wings immortal scandais fly. While virtuous actious are but born to die."

A slandering tongue spares none, not even a friend. I know a poor harmless devil who trusted one of these creatures to over sixty dollars worth sof goods during the war, and never received one caut back, but who has been terribly excoriated ever since by the same party whom he benefited. They will sten! a man's good name, not because of any good it will do them, for they dare not own it, but merely for malice or pleasure, as a monkey would sten! a might-cap. If you notice them and take their past lives into consideration, you will discover that by reason of some wicked deeds of their own they are down in the world. This makes it to their interest to pull every body cise down with themselves. They hate a prosperous neighbor mightily. It grates on their ears to hear him spoken well ol. They are like deep flends who will sow their weeds in an industrious man's corn-field when the owner is asleep. The only reward of this hellish malice is private satisfaction. The slanderer must necessarily be a liar. Truth he avoids. Exaggeration would perhaps be a more refined cognoman. "Calumniate! Calumniate!" Accuse them of being the originators of slanders about yourself or friends and you will be astonished how you surprise them. "Why,I never thought of such a thing! No, never!" Ah, they will lie first to injure, and lie again to deceive. They know the value of an insinuation. They know the value of an insinuation. How does he know that these tongues are berating his name. The author of the lies first insinuates; then the next goestper adds a word; then the third exaggerates and so on until, if he finds it out at all, it will be an entirely different story than when first started.—The bad originator therefore has a hole left by which to escape when the injured one comes for redress. The first one tells it in a whisper, but the last one tells it aloud. Now how is it with the people who listen? Well, for day to sit down at the same table to dine with us. As we were about to partake, forgetting to offer thanks, he refused to cat, saying that, "with him it was a custom to offer thanks befere eating." Great Heaven, thought I, there truly is the devil in the livery of Heaven. His prayers, I found, were less powerful than his scandals. If Heaven admits a single slanderer, I don't care about going there.
